Bree'ara Murphy is a civil litigator in Drew Eckl & Farnham's Atlanta office whose practice areas include premise liability and personal injury defense. Bree'ara is committed to solution finding and achieving excellence in all areas. She has been with Drew Eckl since her 1L summer.

While at Georgia State, Bree'ara served as Treasurer and Secretary of the Ronald J. Freeman Sr. Chapter of the Black Law Students Association, and was a Bleckley Inn of Court Pupil. Bree'ara co-authored an article published to the Georgia State Law Review Blog called, "Ethical Algorithms: Navigating AI in Legal Practice for a Just Jurisprudence." During her 3L year, she became a registered neutral with the Georgia Office of Dispute Resolution and mediated landlord-tenant disputes in Fulton County Superior Court.

In her spare time, Bree'ara enjoys traveling, spending time with family and friends, and recharging in nature.
