About

Taylor Hanks is an associate with the law firm of Drew Eckl & Farnham, LLP. He received his B.A. from Washington University in St. Louis in 2007, and his J.D. from the University of Miami School of Law in 2010. Following law school, Taylor was admitted to the State Bar of Texas and worked as a judicial law clerk for Judge Craig Smith of the 192nd Civil District Court in Dallas, Texas. Taylor then entered private practice, representing corporate clients in product liability, construction, and commercial litigation matters before moving to Georgia in 2017.

Taylor focuses his practice on general civil tort litigation, representing individual and corporate clients in Georgia state and federal courts. His practice includes an emphasis on general tort and insurance litigation, construction, and products liability law.
